The work of the forty-sixth congress is done. Before untering the final words of its adjourn ment, the president justifies a few appropriate reflections. In 1874 the democratic party, after a long intervals ob alued control of this house. With the close of this house it is again in a minority. At the outset it had to face a financial crisis almost unparalleled in our h story. Labor unemployed, trade depressed, commercial distress, widespread gloom every where. It stopped extravagance, established economy in administration, restored condence and now with gladness it beholds the republic launched on a career of unexampled prasperity. It found gold at a premium and the notice of the condition of perfect amity within our borders. It has given birth to an era of fraternal concord. Men of all classes and every section seem now to strive who shall best serve the common weal—with the expenditures of the government lessened and the payment of interest reduced. The crowning triumph of the democratic administration was the effort to refund the jubic dobt at 3 per cent. Sight appliance on republican side. I sam slocerely graciful to members of the house on every side for the vote of thanks with which they have honored me I am sensible of how much I owe to the generous forbearance and the active good will of my fellow members. Thrice elected to existed positions it may be personal pride for me to remark that during all those services no decaden of the chair has been overruled but it is of higher import and renown much more enduring to the house of representatives that its fair fame for that entile period is unstained. A Way for all. Side by side may we stand at the same little gast, when all's done; the ways that are many. The end is one. —Owen Meredith. In wise debate, with learned wit.
The story runs—grave men saw at
To ques ion why
The hum a race had not one way
To think, and preach to sing, and pray,
And trust ng die.

Each member of the council thought
His way was right, his neighbors' haught;
Each eased his mind.
'Thi all confused with 'creeds' and "form,"
Contended well from night 'dil dawn
One road to find. Debate grew wild; both "High" and "Low,"
"Roman" and "Calvin," all you know
Of creed or faith
Were gathered there; and spake with zeal,
Defending each his fair ideal,
The cauren he loved.

Amid the throng in farmer's guise, Arose a seorchman, gray and wise, You he thus did feach: You all are right and all are wrong— No matter how we journey on, The goal to reach. "I ken we all must watch and pray;
I dwelt on 'creeds' this very day,
As with my wheat
I gauged my gait to reach the mill,
And took from choice of 'man's free will'
The turnpike road."

"Along the 'old road' soon I saw
The team of n nest neighbor shaw,
Of Wesleyan sock:
And down the 'hill road' came young Drew,
From up the 'valley' farmers, too,
And by the 'rock.'

A well credites report comes to the Courier office to the effect that quite a serious afray occurred in Chattooga county just sunday, in which one man was shot through the left shoulder, and another probably killed. The report asign that on last Sunday Ben Vann and Jeff Johnson, Jr., went to the house of Molie Courcey, a woman inot above suspicion, and who resides in semi-nole district of Chattooga county, one Kinkaid's mountain, and finding a man by the name of Frauk Little in the house, undertook or run him off. Little backed up into a corner, drew his pistol, and said to the other two men: "If you want to kill me, coace on. Several shots were exchanged, and flee vannelite, excl. ming. "I am shot." Jeff Johnson then fired at Little, and as he fell he said: "I am killed." The information of woman work way.
